Park history

The site of present-day Twenty-five Mile Creek State Park was a seasonal, Native American encampment on the south shore of Lake Chelan. Native Americans came here by land to begin their up-lake canoe trips and to fish and hunt in the area.

The park was constructed as a resort by Dave Davis and was operated for many years as a private concern. State Parks acquired the site in 1972 and continued to operate it as a private resort under concession contracts with various tenants. Since 1988, park staff has operated the park.

WELCOME to Twenty-five Mile State Park

Twenty-five Mile Creek State Park is nestled in the midst of spectacular scenery on the forested south shore of Lake Chelan. This 235-acre camping park features rugged, old-style tent campsites that lie along the shaded rocky shores of Twenty-five Mile Creek and RV sites upland from the creek. A modern marina offers excellent boating access to the upper reaches of Lake Chelan.

A protected wading area (no lifeguards) offers fun for families. Visitors also enjoy hiking and fishing. The park is 18 miles from Chelan, which has a variety of amenities, entertainment and tours, including a passenger ferry ride to Stehekin, a town at the head of the lake.

Overnight accommodations

The park has 46 standard campsites and 21 hookup campsites with a maximum site length of 30 feet. Thirteen of the RV sites are full hookup sites with water, electrical and sewer, while eight have water and electricity only.

A small group camp is available for up to 50 guests. It is located in a grassy area separate from the campground. Fees vary according to the size of the group.

To reserve an individual campsite, visit online at www. parks.wa.gov or call (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688. The group camp may be reserved by calling by (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688.

Boating and moorage

Modern moorage is available for 20 boats up to 23 feet long. Moorage slips are generally reservable from July through mid-September. Two boat ramps are available. The launch is generally usable from mid-June to the end of December. For up-to-date information, call (360) 902-8844. Annual moorage permits may be purchased at State Parks Headquarters in Olympia, at region offices, online at www. parks.wa.gov and at parks when staff is available.

Marina slips may be available for rent prior to July depending on the lake water level. Please visit the Chelan County Public Utility District website, www.chelanpud.org, for more information on the lake's water level.
